FOR GOVERNOR.

SELDEN CONNOR,

OF AUGUSTA.

IMPORTANT SUSPENSION.

The report that the European and North American Railway Company had suspended payment of its paper spread rapidly through our business circles yesterday and the confirmation of the report furnished the leading topic of remark throughout the day. The important relations of the railroad with this community, and the large interests held in it by citizens of Bangor rendered the failure of this large corporation of peculiar significance, and everybody seemed anxious to learn the cause and extent of the trouble.

The facts seem to be that, while the road has been and is doing a good business, the great cost of construction and the expend itures required to get the road in running order necessitated the incurring of a large floating debt, which has proved a heavy burden for some time and the company, finding it impossible to continue to meet the heavy demands for payments on the principal, deemed it necessary to suspend and submit the whole of the financial affairs of the corporation to a meeting of its creditors. Measures have already been taken for the assembling of the parties interested and future action will depend upon the result of that conference.

It is well known that George A. Jewett, Esq., of this city was largely instrumental by the liberal investment of his private fortune and his unremitting personal exertions in carrying the great railway enterprise to successful completion. He came to the aid of the undertaking at a time when faith in its achievement was almost abandoned, and, assuming the heaviest risks furnished means and courage to push the work towards. He has been the main financial reliance of the company whenever it has been in need, and, in seeking to sustain its credit has incurred very heavy pecuniary liabilities. As Mr Jewett is an indorser of the company's paper to a large amount he is necessarily involved in the suspension as are also the Boston house of Jewett & Pitcher and the firm of P. D. Jewett & Co., of St. John, N. B. with which the former gentleman is intimately connected. Other houses may be more or less seriously effected, but as yet we have heard of no failures elsewhere.

We understand that a considerable amount of the company's paper is held in this city, but the collateral securities and confidence in the earning capacity of the line seem to prevent any serious apprehensions in our financial circles, and there has been comparatively little excitement here over so important a suspension. In such a period of general depression a large failure is calculated to produce unusual effect but our people have taken the matter very quietly and the most noticeable expression has been that of sympathy with the misfortune which has befallen the company, and the hope that on examination of the status its affairs may be satisfactorily adjusted.

We are told that the road is doing a good business and that it is in very good condition. There will be no interruption of the railroad service, and current expenses and all the employes will continue to be promptly paid.

The past two years have proved unprecedentedly unfavorable to railroads and especially so to new and struggling corporations. In the revulsion against railroad speculation after the panic, the difficulties of obtaining financial aid for railroad enterprises bore heavily upon companies which had incurred large liabilities which it was desirable to fund on long time. The President and Treasurer of the European and North American Company have striven bravely against the adverse times, and succeeded in carrying the company through the financial crises of last year, when the pressure was so heavy upon it. They have finally staggered under the burden which they were bearing and have deemed it prudent to call the creditors together, lay before them the actual situation of the company, and see what can be done to relieve the present embarrassments. As the officials are engaged in preparing accurate exhibits of the condition of the company's affairs, it would be obviously inexpedient to anticipate the statement of assets and liabilities which will be presented at the meeting of creditors. It is hoped on all hands that the prospects of the road will induce such action as will place it upon a sound financial base.

OUR CANDIDATE AND OUR PLATFORM

[From the Boston Advertiser, June 18.]

General Connor, who has been nominated for Governor, has never been in the Legislature, and has never held any office under the State Government. But for several years past he has been a faithful servant in the Internal Revenue Department of the United States Government, as Collector for the Augusta district. He was one of Maine's war heroes, who rose by his own merits to high rank, and who bears in his body the marks of the conflict in which he engaged with great credit to himself and the State. He is a cool judicious man, amply qualified by his talents and his unstained character to fill the place of Governor worthily. If experience in State affairs is lacking, it will scarcely prove a great objection after the excellent speech in which General Connor accepted the nomination.

The platform is skilfully constructed. The resolutions are clear, sound and judicious containing scarcely anything to which any considerable number of Republicans will object. With the reaffirmation of the Republican position on the old issues is joined a recognition of the new questions that have arisen, and the utterances of the Convention are sufficiently explicit to satisfy all reasonable men. On the currency question the resolution is the reiteration of the declaration of last year, in which practically the whole people of Maine concur. As for the recognition of limitations of the powers of the National Government, and of the wisdom of establishing truly fraternal and harmonious relations between all sections of the country, the Convention took strong and thoroughly sensible ground, neither beclouding the issue with vague and indefinite phrases, nor indulging in insincere "gush." Thus at every point the Maine Republicans have put themselves in a position to deserve the victory which they are certain to win next September.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

The Maine Republicans signalized the one hundredth anniversary of the first steps in the Continental Congress to organize a nation out of the thirteen separate and independent colonies, by declaring with entire emphasis, in their resolutions, that "the Union, State constitutions and nation, and not merely a confederacy." It is a notable coincidence that it was on June 15, 1775, that the Continental Congress in Philadelphia voted to adopt the volunteer militia as a National army, to make Washington the General-in-Chief of the "Continental Army" and of the "United Colonies," and then it was that these names appeared for the first time. Then was committed also the irreparable overt act of ordering swiss of troops in certain named colonies as under a National authority. The National question has been a most momentous one in our politics ever since, and a great civil war has been fought over it, resulting in the triumph and instantiality of the principle in favor of which the Maine Republican Convention reckons on the centennial anniversary of the very day the first National action was taken.

[From the Hartford Courant.]

The Maine Republicans did a good day's work, nominating General Selden Connor for Governor, and adopting an excellent platform. It is worth noticing that all the recent Republican conventions have stood upon the unity of the Nation as the Government, and not, as the Democrats under the lead of Mr. Eaton assert a confederacy of independent nations. This is a point which ought to be urged as fast as school boy recognizes its force and sees that the party which holds a contrary belief endangers the peace and prosperity of the country.

[From the Providence Journal.]

Waiving all minor differences upon subordinate questions, the Republicans of Maine have united in one grand effort for the preservation of liberty and law and their execution and enforcement by the party which saved the nation. The enthusiasm of the Convention was most pronounced, as there was every indication that this enthusiasm was to be carried into effective action during the political campaign and at the polls. For an unpronounciative people, our Maine friends have been unmistakably aroused; we shall look to see them evince that determinate purpose which is a ruling characteristic of our New England folks. The nomination of General Connor for Governor by a vote of 197 out of 502 in lots cast is an auspicious augury.

On returning from that secret conference of Democratic sachems in Portland it which it was decided that the party must fall back on Gen. Roberts the editor of the leftist Journal had just time to inform his readers on "the best possible authority" that if articles pressed thereto our distinguished fellow-citizen would consent to be offered up once more as sacrifice upon the altar of Republicanism. Several of the other organ have been informed that the thing is fixed, and it is said among to soothe the raging Gen Charles to overcome his scruples in order to accept what he has already accepted. Of course the Democratic leaders would not set a candidate on account of military service in the Union ranks; they look only to statesmanship.

THE BROOKLYN TRIAL. The dispatches to the Boston papers Thursday do not state whether Mr. Beach concluded his summing-up, but this is to be inferred from the fact that the court adjourned until Monday, the jury not making a wish to that effect, and the Judge, as counsel stated, also requiring that relaxation. On Thursday Mr. Beach concentrated his powers of invective and his showering of epithets on the defendant afforded a curious commentary upon the critic son of Judge Porter's vigorous language. The Judge will probably deliver his charge on Monday, and he informed us recently that it would be brief and confined solely to the legal bearings of the case without any attempt at sifting the mass of evidence. The Tribune says the charge will be compressed within the space of two hours in its delivery, from 11 A. M. until 1 P. M. He will then ask the counsel to send up their requests to charge, as is believed that the case will be given to the jury in the early part of the coming week probably on Monday!

Says the Boston Advertiser: "Nothing could be more delicate, or more touching, nothing more quickening to patriotic impulses, than the visit of the Maryland Fifth to the soldiers and sailors' monument at Charleston Wednesday. A quiet march, a floral shield laid upon the memorial pile, a large, a simple, soldierly salute; that was all. But it was appropriate, graceful and will be long remembered."

ALL IS NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS.—Captain W. H. Ludlow, United States engineer, in his report on the Black Hills reconnoissance of last July, says that the evidence gathered is discouraging to the supposition that there are large amounts of precious metals in that country, though its real wealth as a value as a farming region is very great. He thinks the best use the government can make of the Black Hills for the next fifty years will be to let the Sioux keep it as a reservation, where they could be taught civilization and industry, and result in relieving the nation of their support. General A. H. Terry in forwarding this report fully approves and endorses Captain Ludlow's views and recommendations.

Postmaster-General Jewell reports to his department that he has experienced great satisfaction on the western trip, as he finds the postal service in an excellent condition. He says he has learned much concerning his branch of the Government that will be of use to him in its administration.

THE DIFFERENCE. The difference between the Republican State Convention at Portland and Democratic State Convention in general is that The Republican convention cast a clear number of votes than there were delegates present while Democratic conventions usually cast more votes than they have delegates. A Democratic convention is sure to put votes enough in the hat to make the report look well on paper. People can judge from this which party is the honest one, which believe in stuffing hats and ballot-boxes, and which does not.—Kennebec Journal.

POLITICAL ANNIVERSARY.

The late ex-Congressman Wentworth left property amounting to $300,000 or $300,000, the major portion of which is to be held in trust for Dartmouth College until it shall amount to $500,000.

A Washington despatch states that a prominent Pomroy rankan, who has just returned from the State, says that the feeling among many leading Republicans there is strongly in favor of Mr. Blaine for the Republican nomination for the next Presidency.

The Kennebec Journal says: "Four officers of the same regiment and company accidentally met at the Convention in Portland on Tuesday. All were severely wounded in different battles. They don't think as the Democrats do, that the chaps who sent them forget to take charge of the quartermaster's book."

We suggest to such Republican journals as think it worth while to wrestle with the "next candidate" problem, that it would be well to think of James G. Blaine as one of the possibilities. If the situation remains unchanged he will be the next candidate, he not only is a possibility, but a strong probability.—St. Louis Globe.

"The Machias Union urges the Democracy of Washington county to send to Augusta a full delegation pledged to do its duty to secure the nomination of Hon. John C. Talbot of East Machias, for Governor. It is no use, Mr. Driscoll, for it was all arranged here last Sunday that Charley Roberts should have the nomination. Besides, Emery, Boynton, Rawson & Co., who run the Democratic machine, remember that you acted the party to haul down the old banner in the summer of 1873, and they won't allow you to prescribe for the patient any longer."—Portland Press.

THE OHIO DEMOCRACY. The Democratic State Convention at Columbus, Ohio, on Thursday, nominated William Allen, the present incumbent, for Governor, and Samuel F. Cary, he who threatened to "burn his shirt" if Maine failed to go Democratic in 1872, for Lieut. Governor. The other nominees were: Supreme Judge, Thos. Q. Ashburn; Auditor, E. M. Green; Treasurer, John Schreiver; Attorney-General, Thomas E. Powell; Member of Board of Public Works, D. E. C. Negan. The platform declares openly for inflation, demands the extinction of the national banks and the issue of more legal tenders, the government to receive one-half its dues in greenbacks, it does the Republicans in opposing the sectarian division of the school fund, opposes prohibition and favors one term for the Presidency with a reduction of the present salary by one-half.

Treating of the controversy as to whether Putnam or Prescott commanded at Bunker Hill, the N. Y. Post cites the opinion of Major General Charles Lee, who reached Cambridge July 2, in company with Washington, who the next day formally assumed command of the American forces there, and from that time undertook the task of organizing them into an army according to the proper meaning of the word. General Lee, writing of the battle of Bunker Hill not long after his arrival, but when he had taken sufficient time to ascertain the facts, said: "The Americans were composed in part of raw lads and old men half-armed, with no practice or discipline; commanded without order, and God knows by whom."

General Devens closed his eloquent oration at Bunker Hill Thursday with the following words:

Standing always in generous remembrance of every section of the Union, neither now nor hereafter will we distinguish between states or sections in our anxiety for the glory and happiness of all. To-day upon the verge of the centuries as together we look back upon that which is gone in deep and heartfelt gratitude for the prosperity so largely enjoyed by us, so together will we look forward serenely and with confidence to that which is advancing. Together will we utter our solemn aspirations, in the spirit of the motto of the city which now encloses within its limits the battlefield and the town for which it was fought, "As God was to our fathers so may he be to us."

TAMMANY TROUBLES. The New York Times says: "What between Dethoc atic roadsters and exemplified in the Board of Aldermen, Democratic obstructiveness and stupidity, as shown in the official career of His Honor, the Mayor, and Democratic arrogance and despot sm as manifested in the management of Tammany Hall, the party of "home rule" is in rather a bad way at the present moment. In addition to exciting the disgust of the general public, the local Democratic managers have aroused some very formidable opposition within their own ranks. The no ble army of unemployed laborers are burning to revenge at the polls the wrongs they have suffered at the hands of the men who have duped them with the promise of better times, and then cut down their wages twenty per cent. Tammany Hall has up to date tried without success to expel ex-Judge Waterbury, is now said to be contemplating the still more difficult job of throwing overboard Mr. John Morrissey. His chance is said to be speaking comparatively slightly, but with John Kelly and Mayor Wickham. In this fight the ex-Congressman appears as the champion of the "Short-hairs," and it does not require prophetic insight to foresee that, should the "Swallow-tail" element in Tammany Hall attempt to dispense with Mr. Morrissey, it will be exceedingly likely to get itself kicked out of the organization."

"SHE WHO ROCKS THE CRADLE RULES THE WORLD."

Dear woman, in the dream of life,
Adorned with every winning art,
As mother, daughter, sister, wife,
She rules the mind, she charms the heart.
Without her, what were lordly man?
A rainbow cheek—a fruitless tree—
A world without a sun—a plan
That ever incomplete must be.
Her fostering care, devotion, love,
Seem angelism from above.

In childhood's hour, beside her smile,
She calls the deeper form,
She clasps her tiny hands in prayer,
Sees an interest from the stars
Not man, triumphal man, the day
Of fulsehood fairly wide shall,
And woos her from a woman's heart
He seeks in love to talk
Her lot is all to trust, though pure,
To sigh, to suffer and endure

Oh, mothers of a race unborn,
The years to come should demand decrees
That herald in the proudest morn,
The waiting world's Regeneration.
Ye are the noble of heralds strong
Who guard and glorify our lives,
The sea in song shall roll along
Beneath the influence of your smiles
The hearts full and good shall reign,
The sinless Eden bloom again.

ART AND ARTISTS.

Bierstadt has arrived at his country seat at Irvington, on the Hudson, for the summer

Gerome's "Sabre Dance" in the Paris Salon has been sold for $18,800

The income of the London Art Union last year was $94,630, the largest amount ever received by the society

George Inness and son, and John A. Hooks are at the Rexsage House, North Conway, sketching in the vicinity

They say that the picture by Turner which brought $27,500 at a recent art sale in London is cracking and peeling and will be a wreck in ten years

Mr. Holman Hunt's picture, "The Shadow of Death," is highly appreciated in Manchester, England, where it has been on exhibition for some weeks past. It has been visited by more than 40,000 persons

The south Kensington Museum has just received a valuable gift of the well-known marble statue "Eve at the Fountain," by E. H. Baily, R. A., one of the most celebrated works of modern English sculpture

At the sale of the Mendel collection of pictures in London recently there were but nine pictures sold; but the sum realized amounted to 200,000 pounds. The Gerard until at Venice, by Turner, was knocked down for 7000 guineas, Millais's Jephtha for 3850 guineas, Frith's Derby Day for 1000 guineas, Holman Hunt's Claudio and Isabella 1050 guineas, "Full October," also by Millais 3100 guineas

Munich has lost one of its well known portrait and genre painters by the sudden death a few days since of Schoerle at the age of fifty one. In Vienna where he has also some years before annally settling Munich he was esteemed as one of the most successful portrait painters of his time. Of the rare pictures of the time of Louis XIV., which in Paris made the special rage were generally regarded as the very best of them died by German artists

William H. Baker an artist of consider able repute and head master of the free schools of design of the Brooklyn Art Association recently died of pneumonia at his residence in South Brooklyn, aged eighteen years. Mr. Baker began in the practice of his profession in New Orleans where he achieved success as a portrait painter. About ten years ago he settled in Brooklyn where he divided his time between portrait and figure painting and was a regular contributor to the association's exhibitions. In 1874, on the reorganization of the free schools of design of the art association, he was elected to take charge of the classes

For seven years the art schools of Cooper Union, New York, have been in operation. Last week the annual exhibition took place, showing very encouraging state of progress and prosperity. The comprehensive version of the system of instruction may be inferred from the following list of works shown in the women's department: 1,500 pencil photographs, 200 drawings from casts, 60 shaded drawings, 130 pencil and pen and ink engravings, 30 drawings from the round, 30 drawings in the ornamental department, 15 architectural drawings, 85 figures, 225 specimens of designs, 65 shaded drawings, 60 drawings in tints from the 110 architectural drawings, 285 mechanical ornamental and machine drawings and 200 clay models. These figures represent only a fraction of the entire work of the classes

Nearly all the pictures of the American artists who exhibited in the Paris salon this year are on the line and in the most favorable light. The first pictures, writes the correspondent of the New York Herald, almost that catch the eye on entering are those of Bridgman and Henry Bacon, and when has it been the fate to see the advantageous position of Bridgman's picture in the light of the salon they confirm all that has been said of them, and of them Bridgman's Nile picture has gained so much in brilliancy as the transposition that it attracting general attention. D. R. Knight's two brilliant landscapes, not a small feature. Every artist's position is pictures glowing with color as the dancers are weakened in a great portion of their effect. Happily this cannot be said of the pictures of our lovely artists—Miss Gardner and Miss Humphreys. They are both very much admired, and they lose nothing in that respect by contrast with their neighbors

BEER.—The culture of the beet is said to be worth more to a country as a fertilizer than the product directly derived from the ferment of the root the waste pulp possessing more valuable than the sugar. It is stated that in France, where the business has grown to enormous dimensions the immense profit on account of the beet pulp is wonderful. In the district of country surrounding the city of Valenciennes, where before the production of beet sugar seven hundred acres were the total amount, eleven thousand five hundred were the total amount raised last year. But these is not all. This enormous increase of stock has so much advanced the fertility of the land that one hundred ninety thousand hundred more wheat are sent in the same district per annum than were ever raised in previous years.

NEWSPAPERS

After January 1st, 1875, all regular newspapers must be prepaid at the office of publication, at the rate of two cents per pound for each issue on each subscription. Publishers may issue as often as a week free from postage, and always sought for by them whenever trouble with their patrons, and in this way close to the point of pleasant property, and through their valuable position, and its acknowledged value as a Rheumatic Remedy, the demand for it has become so pressing and large as to induce the proprietor to increase his facilities for manufacture. Reputation is rapidly extended, and soon the whole nation of sufferers will be relieved from all sections of the United States and Canada, and in this way, as a matter of course, be brought under the "circles of trade" or special benefits. It has become to its present vast and beneficial character in reduced to last century, the use of that great preparation in the treatment of all rheumatic complaints. In this we are really grateful and happy, not alone because we receive the fruits of success in consequence, but because we do so we say this, but because we open a way for us in the first instance, and ever at once what the best medical practitioners have for ages sought so difficult even to relieve. We also have the satisfaction of knowing that we relieve the suffering and minister to God's poor, we restore the laboring man to the use of his injured limbs, and the cultivator of the soil to health and vigor. In a word we carry comfort and gladness into the home of the afflicted, and consequently are remembered by millions with grateful souls.

Thousands are to be met at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send to the Wholesale Agents,
